LARGE CROWD IS COMING TONIGHT

Delegation From Brookville, New Salem and Andersonville Expected For I. & C. Meeting.

ALL ARE FOR THE EXTENSION

Following Trip Saturday Pres. Henry
Announced Proposed Route
Will Touch New Salem.

Today indications were the assembly room in the court house will not hold the crowd which will gather there this evening in the interest of the I. & C. extension to Cincinnati from this city. The crowd will include merchants, manufacturers and residents of Brookville, people of the towns of New Salem and Andersonville and those residing along the proposed route to be followed if the line is extended from Rushville.

It is probable that Charles L. Henry, president of the I. & C. will be able to attend the meeting and make a short talk. He has been asked to be present and will make an effort to. He attended a directors' meeting in Anderson this afternoon and expected to make a special effort to get here in time for the meeting at seven-thirty o'clock this evening.

The Brookville merchants and manufacturers sent word they would be here tonight which gave impetus to the local meeting. The Rushville Retail Merchants Association resolved to give the Brookville boosters a rousing reception and set about to get out a crowd. The Rushville business men are anxious to show the Brookville men that they are just as heartily in favor of the I. & C. extension and are as wide awake as their neighbors on the south. The latest word is that at least sixty will arrive here from Brookville on the 7:09 I. & C. car.

New Salem and Andersonville will send delegations to the meeting tonight and each will have a representative to voice the sentiment of the communities from which they come. The I. & C. has announced that if the line is extended from this city that it will pass through both of these towns. It has been doubtful in the past as to whether or not the line would touch New Salem.

Saturday Mr. Henry and a party of surveyors drove as far as Andersonville and mapped out the route for the engineers to follow as far as that town. On their return Saturday night Mr. Henry said the proposed route would be over the present track across Flatrock and then would branch out across the country to the New Salem pike. It will follow the pike on the south side through New Salem and into Andersonville.

Representative citizens of New Salem and Andersonville were called by telephone Saturday evening and apprised of the news Mr. Henry had given out and of the arrangements for the meeting here tonight. It was promised that a delegation would be organized in each town and come here for the meeting tonight. It appears that the sentiment in these two communities is strongly in favor of the extension, as it will offer an outlet for farmers' produce and a convenient method of travel to and from their homes.

The party of eight surveyors arrived here this morning and promptly began work on the survey. It is estimated that with fairly good weather conditions the survey can be finished in a month. The Greensburg survey has been completed.

WOMAN DISMISSES SUIT FOR $7.75, DEMANDED FOR RAISING CALVES

When Circuit Court is Prepared to Hear Unusual Case Unexpected
Action is Taken.

SHE WANTED DOLLAR A MONTH

Ella Castner of Anderson township will never get that $7.75 for bringing up as they should be brought up two orphan calves belonging to Alexander Innis, on whose farm she lived. The case was called for trial in the circuit court this morning, the jury assembled and every preparation had been made when she dismissed the case and the costs were adjudged against her.

The plaintiff first brought suit for $7.75 in Squire Ritchie's court in Milroy. She alleged in the complaint that amount was due her for "feeding, watering, nursing and tending" two orphan calves.

The complaint recited that she cared for one from April first, to August 18, 1911, or a total of four months and eighteen days, and the other from May fifteenth, until August 18, of the same year, or a total of three months and three days. The time during which she cared for the calves was alleged to be seven months and twenty-one days, and she demanded a very moderate sum for her trials and tribulations—one dollar a month.

Squire Ritchie heard the case and decided for the plaintiff—that it was worth at least one dollar a month for a woman to rear two forsaken and scrawny calves to cowhood. Alexander Innis didn't think he had to pay it, and rather than do so, he appealed to the circuit court.

Jack Ross of Andersonville was attorney for the plaintiff and John Kiplinger represented the defendant. It was rumored in court this morning that they had each taken a calf and settled the dispute, but they both declared this story was absolutely false.

ARRESTED FOR WIFE DESERTION

Police Succeeded Yesterday in Locating Tobe Lucas, Who is Wanted in Batesville.

WOMAN HERE PASSED FOR WIFE

Lived Together in West Tenth Street
For Several Weeks—Will be Taken Back.

The police here have been trying for six weeks to locate Tobe Lucas, who is wanted in Batesville for wife desertion. He was supposed to be in this city, living with another woman, posed as his wife, but the police up until yesterday could not locate him.

Yesterday afternoon Chief McAllister received a telephone call to come at once to West Tenth street as a man named Lucas was intoxicated and was threatening the life of his wife. Chief McAllister and Policeman Walters hurried to the scene and after a chase through a field north of the city along the Big Four railroad succeeded in capturing the man. He proved to be Tobe Lucas.

The police in Batesville were notified and promised to come after Lucas. In case they do not come, charges will be filed here. Chief McAllister first had word that Lucas was living here with a woman who was not his wife, about six weeks ago. He received an anonymous letter telling him the Batesville man was living here in North Main street with a woman named Casady. All efforts to locate him proved of no avail. The Batesville marshal in reply to a letter from Chief McAllister stated that Lucas had deserted his wife and five children and had come here with the Casady woman. It is said the Casady woman is from Laurel and left her husband and three children to come here with Lucas.

If it had not been for the disturbance yesterday afternoon, Lucas might never have been caught for the police had almost come to the conclusion that he was not here. He was too drunk yesterday to realize the seriousness of the charge and admitted that his wife and five children were living in Batesville. The man and woman have been living in West Tenth street, near the Big Four railroad. One of their neighbors called the police after Lucas and the woman had created the disturbance. Lucas tried to escape after hearing the police were coming, but did not get far because of his condition.

WILL LECTURE ON CHINA

Grace Jennings, Missionary, Will Tell of Conditions of Heathens.

Miss Grace F. Jennings, of Nanking, China, well known here where she has appeared often in past years, will lecture on "An Evening in China," at the St. Paul M. E. church. The lecture will be illustrated by stereoscopic views of the Celestial Empire, showing scenes which might be seen on a trip by steamboat and railroad from Tientsin to Peking. The lecture will have to do with the history of Buddhism, Confucianism, Art, Religion and Taoism in China, and will touch on the ancient custom of foot-binding and other native customs. The pictures will show the great Chinese wall, and will depict other scenes which reveal the work of Christianity in civilizing the heathens.

WATSON MAY BE ONE OF BIG FOUR

Former Congressman is Named One of Delegates at Large to National Convention by Pres. Taft.

ELIMINATES HIM FROM SIXTH

Local Statesman Been Mentioned as One of Two Delegates From This District.

Indiana's four delegates at large to the Chicago national convention, according to information received in Washington through perfectly reliable channels, have virtually been agreed upon, contingent, of course, upon the supposition that President Taft's Indiana friends will be in control of the state convention says a Washington dispatch. They are Charles W. Fairbanks, Harry S. New, Fred A. Sims and James E. Watson.

There never at any time has been any question as to the first two names. By consent Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. New have been accorded places on the delegation at large and the fitness of these selections has not been questioned. It is known that when suggestions were sought at the White House the answer was that, while the President would not take a hand in purely state politics, it would be gratifying to him if Mr. Fairbanks and Mr. New should have seats as delegates at large.

Concerning the other two places on the "Big Four" list there has been more uncertainty. Joseph D. Oliver, South Bend manufacturer, was mentioned for a time. Gradually opinion crystallized on Fred A. Sims, for the reason that it seemed fitting that the chairman of the state committee should be delegate at large. Besides, Mr. Sims has a large personal following that would like to see him thus honored.

There was a still further delay before it became an accepted idea that former Representative James E. Watson was the man for the other place on the delegation. Conditions in the Sixth District were not overlooked.

While Watson's friends say he could win, they see no justifiable reason for tearing up the district and causing unnecessary strife which would ripen into a crop of Democratic votes at the coming election.

ADMIRERS OF RUSHVILLE

Southern Indiana Fur Buyer Impressed by Cluster Lights.

Dave Holykamper of Vincennes and E. V. Keasling of Bruceville, prominent fur buyers of southern Indiana, left Rushville this afternoon with a better impression of the city than they have ever had. The two men have been here several days transacting business with Oneal Brothers. The local firm buys all the furs which the two men purchase in the southern part of the State. They were impressed by the appearance of the business district of the city and the tendency of Rushville business men to be always on the alert. They favored especially Rushville's cluster lights, an improvement which has not been initiated by southern Indiana cities yet.

SAM WEBB PLEADED GUILTY

Mayor Black.

Sam Webb made his fourth appearance in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to the usual charge, intoxication. "Sam, you must like to come here pretty well but you have about worn out your welcome," said Mayor Black. Wallace Morgan, acting prosecutor, interceded in behalf of Webb and instead of getting the limit, the mayor let him down with one dollar and costs. He went back to jail for eleven days.

HE ADVISES THAT DOGS BE CONFINED

County Health Commissioner Says
Tie up Canines Which Show
Symptoms of Rabies.

CASE MAY BE DETERMINED

There were reports last week of several mad dogs in the vicinity of William Stanley's farm, which is located about midway between Carthage and Arlington. Saturday four of the supposed mad dogs were killed and three others thought to be suffering with the same malady escaped. They were first reported to have been seen in that neighborhood Thursday evening. At that time they bit much stock, but no persons were attacked.

No report has been made to Dr. Frank H. Green, county health commissioner. If they are mad dogs, he does not believe they were bitten by the mad dog which was killed near Arlington about a month ago. Hydrophobia would have developed much sooner than that, according to the health officer.

The health commissioner advises that dogs who show symptoms of rabies be tied up for several days and then it can be determined exactly whether or not they have the disease. If they are killed immediately, when they act strangely, it will be the natural supposition they were mad. And if they should bite any person, that person will conclude he will have hydrophobia. Dread of the disease is known to have caused such cases.

PREACHER-EDITOR BUYS POWER PRESS AND BEGINS ALL OVER AGAIN

Andersonville Herald is Revived by Unique Newspaper Man After
Period of Inactivity.

DISGUSTED WITH HAND PRESS

Newspaper editors of Eastern Indiana found a copy of the Andersonville Herald on their exchange desks this morning. The Herald, which was formerly one of the most unique newspapers issued, largely due to the fact that it was published in a little hamlet which was not favored with any mailing facilities better than a rural route, has been revived and once more will interest newspaper readers in the vicinity which it covers.

The Andersonville Herald is different from most weekly newspapers in that it exists, and is teeming with neighborhood news when it has such a small town to draw on. Andersonville is composed of a few families yet the Herald has thrived in past years and has been the source of in-

PLEADS CAUSE OF NATIONAL PEACE

W. P. Rogers of Cincinnati Says it is as Odious For Countries to Resort to Combat

AS IT IS FOR INDIVIDUALS

Law School Dean Traces History of Peace Movement at Men's Big Meeting Sunday.

W. P. Rogers, dean of the Cincinnati law school, in a clear and concise manner, traced the history of the peace movement in the world to the present day at the Men's Big Meeting yesterday and closed with an expression of the hope that congress would concur in the action of President Taft who entered into an agreement with France and England, in behalf of the United States, that all questions of dispute between any of the three countries should be submitted to arbitration before an international court.

The law school dean compared the nations of the world to the individual. He traced the history of civilization, detailing the manner in which customs had changed for the better with the advance of civilization, illustrated by the fact that individuals are compelled now to settle disputes in court rather than by mortal combat.

At the opening of his address on "Universal Peace," Dean Rogers paid Rushville a compliment in remarking that he had heard of the fame of Men's Big Meetings here, and being aware of some of the great men who had appeared before him, he said he felt some temerity in facing such an audience with a message such as his. But his message was well received, it being far different from those brought here in the past.

To illustrate the customs of the nineteenth century when disputes were settled by mortal combat Mr. Rogers recited an incident which occurred in Warwickshire, England. It was briefly as follows: In May of 1817 Mary Ashford, a country lass of that place, went to a dance, met a young man named Abram Thornton, and each was infatuated with the other. Thornton was supposed to have taken her home that night but she formation for the community to which it is of much interest. Andersonville is situated near the connecting line of four counties, Franklin, Fayette, Decatur and Rush and has readers in all of these.

The Andersonville Herald is made even more distinctive by its editor, the Rev. F. Wilson Kaler, who is a minister by choice and a newspaper editor—perhaps for pecuniary reasons. He has been termed the preacher-editor, and might be called more because he has tried his hand at writing verse and short stories.

The Herald is not so different from the rest merely because it is said to be the only newspaper in the United States which is published on a rural route, because the editor makes it different. He makes it of deep interest to the community for which it exists by noting the going and coming of every neighbor and friend.

The Herald has become famed in many parts of the United States. It formerly was sent to the exchange desks of New York papers and the editor's pithy sayings and syllogisms were copied freely.

FARMERS FAIL TO PROMISE SUPPORT

Carthage is Making an Extra Effort to Land Plant There This Season.

200 ACRES TOMATOES WANTED

The farmers and others at and near Carthage seem to be indifferent about the outlook for the future of the canning plant in that little city, according to the Citizen which makes a strong plea this week to the farmers and business men for support. The main trouble seems to be the fact that the farmers will not pledge themselves to raise a large enough acreage of tomatoes and roasting ear corn to keep the plant running on a paying basis. The company is asking for 200 acres of tomatoes and an increase in the amount of corn. The Carthage Citizen says on the subject:

"The land owners are the first to be benefitted. The farmers adjacent to Charlottesville have contracted to furnish 200 acres of tomatoes at $9 per ton to the Van Camp Company at Indianapolis. The farmers receive their money from Indianapolis and the probabilities are they will spend the greater part of it there. If Charlottesville can furnish 200 acres of tomatoes to be shipped away, without benefit to her townspeople, can't Carthage furnish 200 or more acres when the price here is higher and the product handled by a home industry employing a hundred hands? These same hands almost invariably spend their money here. Our merchants are benefitted. The money is kept at home. Our people are better dressed, have more to eat and better home surroundings."

FAILS TO FIND DISEASE CAUSE

B. W. Douglass, Former State Entomologist, Leans Better Now to Detest it on Peach Trees.

EFFECT IT HAS ON THE FRUIT

First Causes Mark Discoloration on Leaves—His Report to be Circulated.

After having spent several months last year in trying to discover the cause of the disease among peach trees known as "peach yellow," the office of the state entomologist has been compelled to confess it made no progress in the investigation, except that it learned better how to detect the disease. The inspection was under the direction of B. W. Douglass, former state entomologist. In Mr. Douglass's report, soon to be ready for circulation, he says there is no known means of combating the disease, except to burn infected trees.

"While the disease is known to be infectious, it has never been demonstrated that it was caused by any specific organisms, the report says. It is liable to attack the trees at practically any age from the young trees in the nursery rows to old trees in bearing orchards. This disease probably had more influence in discouraging the peach growers in southern Indiana fifteen and twenty years ago than any other trouble that they had to combat. They recognized the disease as positively fatal and had absolutely no means then for combating it.

"The first effect of the disease is to cause a marked discoloration of the leaves. In bearing trees the fruit ripens prematurely and is characterized by bright red streaks running from the skin to the center of the fruit. When the peach is cut, these streaks appear as lines and dots of bright red through the flesh of the fruit. Sometimes the peaches on infected trees will hang on the trees during the winter in much the same fashion that the mummies from the brown rot hang on the trees. About the third year after the tree is attacked it starts to die and low on the trunk will be developed great bunches of wiry, slender twigs.

"Whenever the disease is known to be present in an orchard, all suspicious trees should be taken out and burned at once. It is not advisable to carry the trees out of the orchard to burn them, but they should be cut up and burned where they stood so as not to carry the infection to any other portion of the orchard. Orchards that are well cultivated and where the trees are kept in strong, vigorous conditions are much less liable to be attacked by peach yellows than are those which are neglected, not cultivated and allowed to overbear without fertilization of the soil.

"Like all other diseases, peach yellows is more liable to attack a weakened tree than it is one which is in a condition of perfect health. This is simply another one of the innumerable reasons for giving the orchard thorough cultivation from the time it is planted.

"The disease is rarely ever present on nursery stock in a condition that can be accurately diagnosed, so the ordinary nursery inspection will not prevent the dissemination of the diseased trees. In general, we have been making an effort to prevent the sale of peach trees grown in districts that are known to be infested with peach yellow. During the past years, several thousand acres have been inspected in Indiana and a large number of trees have been condemned and cut and burned by the owners. In one section in Morgan county this inspection work has resulted in a renewed enthusiasm among the peach growers and many new orchards are being planted."

ADVANCE COURSE GREATLY DESIRED

Replies to Circular Letters Sent Out to Librarians of State Indicate That.

AT COMING SUMMER SCHOOL

It Will Be Held at Earlham College From June 26 to August 8.

Carl H. Milam, secretary and state organizer of the public library commission, has announced that the eleventh annual summer school for librarians will be held this year at Earlham college, Richmond, June 26 to August 8. In these summer schools persons holding appointments or assurances of appointments to library positions are taught the science of library care. Only those persons will be admitted to the school who hold positions or definite assurance of positions, and who have had four years' high school work or its equivalent.

For the first time since the schools were started, the course will be free, with the exception of a $10 fee for persons who come from outside the state.

The instructors will be: Mr. Milam, Miss Carrie E. Scott and Miss Ora Williams, assistant organizers, and William M. Hepburn, librarian at Purdue university. Besides these there will be special lectures by several librarians in Indiana and some well-known persons from outside the state.

Circular letters have recently been sent out to the librarians of the state asking if a special advanced course in any subject would be appreciated. The replies that are coming in indicate that several such courses are desired and would be taken advantage of. Most of those who have replied to the letters up to date have indicated a preference for children's work, but cataloging is a close second. If the commissioner's finances hold out the most desired course will be offered, Mr. Milam said. If any such a course is given at all it will be by an expert in the subject, the best person that can be obtained, and the course will be open only to people who have already a good knowledge of general library work.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

NOURISHING BEEF DISHES.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

I wonder how many careful house-mothers know stuffed roast beef? To make it get two flank steaks of generous size, sew them together with clean strong cotton and stuff bag thus formed in any way you like. Tie up the steaks. Butter them well over the outside. Slip into a well buttered paper bag plenty large enough to hold them, add a tablespoonful of water, cook in a hot oven three minutes, then turn off the heat more than half and cook for forty minutes more. Very heavy steaks may take longer, and light ones a shorter time. Sliced onions laid around the steak will flavor the meat and the gravy. This dish can be left standing in the bag quite a while after cooking. Heating it up makes it as good as ever.

Take four pounds of round beef—the best cut. Rub over liberally with butter or clarified drippings, but do not salt, and put into a bag, which has been thickly buttered, along with half a can of tomatoes or three large fresh onions, peeled and chopped, one minted onion, one small red pepper, three cloves and six grains of allspice. Score the beef lightly on top so as to press the spices into it. Cover it with the tomatoes, onion, etc., and lay on them a lump of butter or dripping rolled in salted flour. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar and water mixed. Seal bag tight, and cook very slowly for three hours. A gas jet turned half down gives about the right heat. Take from the bag, pour out the gravy—in a saucepan if you want it thickened with browned flour; otherwise, in the boat. The meat will be very tender and delicious.

Yorkshire pudding does not absolutely demand cooking underneath a roast. To go with this round roast, you can make it thus. Beat two eggs separately very light, then add to them alternately a cup of sweet milk and two cups of flour, sifted with half a teaspoonful salt, and a teaspoonful baking powder. Mix smoothly, pour into a very well greased bag, seal, allowing room for rising, lay flat on a wire mat and cook for twenty-five minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Meat roll is a good end for cold lean roast beef. Mince or grind it fine, season with salt, pepper, tiny bits of butter, a little lemon juice and a pinch of powdered herbs. Roll out puff paste to less than a quarter inch thickness. Make it in long strips. Spread the meat thinly upon them, roll up, pinch the ends together tight, put in a buttered bag with a little stock or water or left over gravy, also a small lump of butter, seal and cook till the pastry is brown—the time depending somewhat on the size and number of the rolls.

A PAPER BAG DINNER.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Duckling with Turnips: Thoroughly butter a paper bag, place the duckling inside, cut a few slices of carrot and turnip into fancy shapes, cut up a few blanched spring onions, and add a bouquet garni. Pour in three tablespoonfuls of tomato sauce and a wineglassful of Madeira. Season with salt and pepper according to taste. Cook for forty-five to fifty-five minutes, according to the size of the bird.

Chicken a la Reine: Take a fowl trussed as for boiling, and rub it well over with a split onion. Place it in a well-greased bag and add to it a gill of good stock. Add also a sprig of parsley, a bay leaf, a sprig of sweet herbs, and, if obtainable, two or three spring onions, all tied together. Take four ounces of well-cooked rice and add it to the fowl. Place the bag on the broiler, simmer very slowly in a moderate oven until the fowl is cooked, then dish up the fowl on a hot dish, remove the herbs and empty the rice into a fresh bag. Add to it a tablespoonful of stock, a gill of cream, a little grated lemon peel, a dust of nutmeg, and pepper and salt to taste. Mix thoroughly, add the well-beaten yolk of an egg, make hot again on the broiler and serve at once.

Turkey and fillet of veal are both excellent cooked after this recipe.

Lima Beans: Take a quart of Lima beans, add two ounces of butter, four ounces of diced ham, a little sugar and salt, a teaspoonful of flour and sweet herbs to taste. Put in a greased bag with half a pint of water and cook for sixty minutes in a moderate oven.

Spinach: Pick over and thoroughly wash two pounds of spinach, leave the vegetable as wet as you can, and put it in a bag. Add a pinch of sugar and a little salt. Seal the bag and cook for thirty-five minutes. Then stand the broiler bearing the bag over a large plate, and prick the bottom of the bag in such a way as to allow all the water to run out.

Fruit Salad: Take four peeled and thinly sliced bananas, half a pound of well washed and dried Hamburg grapes, ditto strawberries, an apple, and two large oranges. Pinch each grape slightly. Hull the strawberries, peel and slice the apple and oranges very thinly. Mix all well together in a deep bowl. Pour over a small bottle of raspberry syrup and a tablespoonful of brandy. Mix well. Leave on ice till needed.

NATIVE HOOSIER HAS LIVED AMONG HEAD HUNTER TRIBES IN PHILIPPINES

Louis M. Murphy of Near St. Paul
Accomplished What no Other White Man Has.

ADOPTED HEATHEN'S MODES

Louis M. Murphy, until recently a soldier in the United States army, living near here, has done what no white man ever did before him—not even the armed soldier of the United States—and live to tell the story. He lived among the head hunters, and what he did, strangely enough, any man might do if he pursued the same tactics and deported himself in the same manner. Murphy has been with the army in the Philippine islands two years. Having served his time, he separated himself from the soldiers and penetrated into the sequestered regions of the islands where lived the hated head hunters, the savage Ibulao, a tribe shunned by civilized men as one would shun a deadly pestilence. He lived among them without the least danger of his life.

"I never was threatened," said Murphy. "It was an easy thing to do and anybody can do it if they know how." Murphy said that the Ibulao got a bad name from persons who attempted to go among them in civilized garb or the trappings of a soldier, and with the insolence of some of the soldiers. These men go with the idea that the Ibulao are to be subdued.

This is how Murphy did it: He went alone in the clothes of a common citizen and he made no attempt to civilize the savage during the first few hours he was among them. He knew a few words of their language, or dialect, and he used them cautiously and with tact. He also donned the Ibulao habit of dress which was severely simple, ate what they ate and looked on in silence as they performed their curious religious rites of worshipping the sun every morning.

"I lived better among them than when I was in civilization," he said in commenting on his experiences with the savage tribe. "My life was never threatened and the only time I thought they might have been planning to kill me was when they asked me to fire my revolver. I thought they wanted to catch me with an empty gun and did not fire."

Murphy was in the island five years and ten months and he says he was vaccinated 120 times. During the time he was there he took 800 pictures of people and scenes in the forbidden portions of the Philippines. These negatives are now being preserved by Mr. Murphy.

Since he returned to the vicinity of St. Paul he has been doing a general contracting business.

SCHOOL SLATE GROWS IN DISFAVOR WITH SCHOOL HEADS

Former Educator Adjunct Now Regarded as Breeders of Contagious Diseases Among Children.

EXIT CAUSES NO APPROVAL

The school slate, such as you used in the days when "readin' and ritin' and 'rithmetic" were taught to the tune of the hickory stick, is passing into oblivion. The exit of the dear old school slate, however, has caused no outburst of approval such as that which followed the passing of the public drinking cup. The general public regards the departure of the school slate in a matter of course way, which is due to familiarity with disease and its origin.

The older generation of Hoosiers recalls with tenderness the good old days when the slate was almost a priceless medium through which the primary rudiments of education could be mastered. Writing tablets made from paper were not so numerous and cheap in those days and naturally the slate had many admirers among parents. There were small slates for "kids" in the chart class, medium-size slates for pupils in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades and mammoth double slates for pupils in the seventh, eighth and higher grades.

There was a time when a writing tablet made from paper was regarded as a luxury among students of the high school. Even then the writing tablet was made from the cheapest grade of paper. A writing tablet with "slick" paper was regarded as an index to the wealth of the owner's parents.

The thing that brought the slate into disfavor among health authorities was the manner in which "kids" erased or cleaned their respective slates—expectorating on the slate and rubbing it dry with a rag and quite frequently with the sleeves of their garments.

It took the public a good many years to discover that the old slate was a disseminator of disease, especially throat contagions, and it's only a question of a few years until the germ-laden and disease-breeding slate will have become extinct. In some of the rural schools "pocket" slates are used almost exclusively, but instances of that kind are the exception and not the rule. Teachers are discouraging the custom of using slates in the public school.

Arizona has now become the 48th sister, and we are anxious to learn how she survives the change from cow-boy leggings to the hobble skirt.

King George has made his speech from the throne, but he will have to make less stereotyped remarks if he expects the boys in the gallery to stop eating peanuts and listen.

James J. Hill thinks competition will endure indefinitely. He seems to forget how much easier it is to make profits out of the Consumer than out of an alert business rival.

The House proposes to tax cosmetics. While the women have never said much about taxes on necessities, we see some one's finish if they put a tax on beauty.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox is named to be the first woman to go on the Supreme bench, but as Ella is a poet, we do not feel sure that she would have her hat on straight.

It now remains to be seen whether Mr. Taft's Neurotic club will attain the long and exclusive membership list gained by Mr. Roosevelt's Ananias club.

Rushville and Ft. Wayne school boards have followed the example of Muncie, Richmond and Shelbyville, and forbidden the presence in their high school of frat members, says the Richmond Item. An era of law enforcement and respectability seems at hand. Maybe the high school graduates of Indiana, after a generation of study, not dissipated by four years of snobbery at its conclusion, will have had a disciplinary training that will, in a number of cases, make amends for a lack of every-day common sense, that has tended to lessen the average man's respect for the value of such training. There is increasing reason to hope so at least.

Every good citizen of this republic will hope for a fair and speedy trial of the 54 men who have been arrested for alleged conspiracy in the dynamite plots.

If these men are innocent of this charge, a grave injustice has been done, not merely to them, but to the organizations they represent, composed of men who are doing the best they can to advance their scale of living to a clean and helpful American basis.

If these men are guilty of this bloody conspiracy, they are striking at the very foundations of this republic. Our government is a joint partnership. In a business concern, if some of the partners refuse to abide by the rules of the company, and plunder and destroy the property of the other members, the end of the partnership is in sight. Similarly in a partnership formed for the purpose of government.

The fact that courts have often been unjust and that capital has often bribed officials, is no excuse for resorting to dynamite. In the long run the ballot will be a more efficient weapon than violence. If the battle is to be fought with dynamite, the capitalists can buy more than any one else. No legislatures, nor courts, nor congresses, can long stand out against the voice of the people expressed by legal methods, provided that voice is in accordance with the principles of human justice.

The plaintiff in the calf suit laid down when it came to trial in the circuit court. It can't be possible that she had any of the attributes that are often ascribed to types such as were her proteges.

The Newcastle Courier opines the worst part of winter is when it begins to pull stakes.

With a power press in his office perhaps the preacher-editor will have the strength and vigor to get out a sheet regularly.

Some of the old-fashioned men who used to sigh for a good old-fashioned winter have developed into ordinary dyed-in-the-wool liars because they have gone South for the winter.

We note by the woman's page the expression: "Even in summer one does not always feel like a white shirt waist." Just how, sisters, must one feel to feel like a white shirt waist?

The Princess will show as the first picture a Selig war drama, "George Washington's Escape." "The First Man" is an Essanay comedy. Tomorrow night the attraction will be "Molly Pitcher," a feature war picture.

The Portola will have as the first picture tonight a Lubin film entitled, "The Substitute." It is a thrilling railroad story. The other picture is an Essanay film, "A Good Fellow's Christmas Dinner." It is a pathetic story of Christmas time. Friday and Saturday nights, "Vanity Fair," the Vitagraph production in three reels will be the attraction.

Victor Moore will be seen at English's in Indianapolis, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee in "Shorty McCabe," a comedy that permits Mr. Moore broad opportunity for the portrayal of the slangy young American who nonchalantly pulls the strings that oblige his social superiors to comply with his own honest motives. The play is from the pen of Owen Davis and is a dramatization of a long series of tales by Sewell Ford, in which McCabe appears as the principal character. Shorty is a former champion lightweight, who is "discovered" training young millionaires in the gentle art of bag punching. Thus logically in an environment of aristocracy he proceeds to "wise" up to his friends and discomfit his enemies to the accompaniment of a philosophy that is said to represent both the argot and the ideas of 1912. In the cast are Jean Galbraith, Emma Littlefield, Clara Reynolds Smith, Harry L. Franklin, Erville Anderson, Lottie Uart, Sam Collins, Evangeline Dorris, Bertrand Burton, Aline Morrison, Katherine LaSalle, Henry Warwick, Nicholas Burnham, Percy Denton and Frank Lann.

Telling The FUTURE

Professor Richmond, the clairvoyant and palmist at the Beer Cottage hotel, is doing some remarkable fine work. He is daily reading for many people, who in turn recommend him to their friends. He tries to tell them all something that will do them much more good than the small fee he charges.

Each caller gets the result of his (Prof. Richmond's) years of study and experience in the reading the lives of men and women. He understands why things go good or bad for you. There is a scientific reason. A reason that can oftentimes be corrected. The professor is glad to help anyone that is desirous of bettering his condition in life. He is not only a clairvoyant and life reader, but through advice and directing and special revelations guides you to success in love, in business and family matters, financial affairs, etc. The professor's fees remain low and within the reach of all.

by a score of 9 to 0. Thursday evening the "Never-Sweats" defeated the Juniors 10 to 1.

Versie Higgs, '13, entertained the Sombras at an eight o'clock luncheon Friday night at her home, 325 West Tenth street. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

"Six defeats and if you don't believe it count 'em on your fingers," was the song the high school students were singing Saturday after being defeated by the strong Newcastle team 19 to 12.

The "Runts" were victors over the "All Stars" Friday night in the curtain raiser, 9 to 7. The line-up for the teams are as follows: "Runts"—Glore and Stech, forwards; Shortridge, center; Roan and Griffin, guards, "All Stars"—MacDonald and Coyne, forwards; Hinkle, center; Huffman and Roseneranes, guards, Gus Williams, referee.

MILROY LOST TO WALDRON

Eurekas Handed Slim End of 18 to 23 Score.

The Waldron Cubs defeated the Eurekas at Milroy Friday night in a fast basket ball game by a score of 23 to 18. The game was well played and both teams showed excellent team work. The Cubs although on a strange floor outplayed the Eurekas and the victory was well earned. It was one of the few defeats handed the Milroy team this year. The team lined up as follows: Waldron—Aureine and Barlow, forwards; Alter, center; King and Schneid, guards, Milroy—Harcourt and Harcourt, forwards; Thomas, center; H. Thomas and Barlow, guards.

WAY TO GAIN FLESH

There is only one way for thin, weak persons to gain flesh and strength and that is to eat and digest more food.

"But that's just the trouble," says one. "I don't want to eat at all and the doctors say it does more harm than good to eat what I don't want."

That is true. The thing to do is to get an appetite and good digestion. Miss Henrietta Huber, of the Bronx, N. Y., says on this subject: "I was very weak and had been for several months, so I thought I ought to take Vinol to gain strength. Since taking Vinol I have gained over 15 pounds in weight and my appetite is good. Now I am as strong as ever."

This is a remarkable case, but there are thousands of others, proving that our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is a certain body builder and strength creator. If you are weak and thin, you should by all means give yourself the benefit of Vinol for it will build you up and make you strong. We guarantee it to do this. F. B. CAN'T CARE FOR ALL OF INSANE

State Hospitals Are Crowded, According to Report Made by State Board of Charities.

RATIOS IN FIVE DISTRICTS

Figures For Last Fiscal Year Show One For Every 480 Inhabitants Was Confined.

Figures compiled by the board of state charities for the last fiscal year show that on September 30 an average of one in every 480 inhabitants of Indiana was insane. The highest ratio was in the central counties, where one person in every 440 inhabitants was insane. The district cared for by the northern state hospital, at Logansport, and that by the southern hospital, at Evansville, had equal ratios, or one insane person for every 460 inhabitants. The district cared for by the eastern hospital, at Richmond, had one insane person for every 496 inhabitants. The lowest ratio was in the district cared for by the southeastern hospital, at Madison where there was one insane person for every 496 inhabitants.

The board showed that if every bed were occupied in all the state hospitals, 94 per cent. of the total number of insane persons in the state could be cared for in every hospital. The northern hospital visible to be ready for emergency cases, and there are always vacant beds in every hospital. The modern hospital is able, with proper provisions for emergencies, to care for only 85.9 per cent. of the insane of the district. The central is able to care for 87.5 per cent.; the eastern, 89.3 per cent.; the southern, 91.4 per cent. The southeastern is able to care for all the insane in its district, and for 25.7 per cent. more than the number reported, but with that addition would not be able to afford much relief for the state at large.

Governor Marshall has said repeatedly that it will be advisable for the next general assembly to provide for additional care of the insane, in order to take insane persons from county jails and poor asylums. Whether an additional hospital should be provided, or more room added to these already in operation is a detail the Governor has not yet satisfied himself concerning. The Governor recently redistricted the state for insane hospital purposes. By the new plan the central district has twenty-two counties; the northern, sixteen; the eastern, sixteen; the southern, fifteen; the southeastern, twenty-three. Reports from the hospitals, poor asylums, jails and county clerks showed there were 5629 insane persons in the state at the close of the last fiscal year.

Twenty years ago a man left Lew- erville owing several unpaid bills. Recently L. F. Symons received a draft for $50 with instructions as to how to pay each person. The money was promptly divided among the creditors. This honest man is W. E. Southwick, of Tillamook, Oregon.

THAT'S A GOOD WORD.

Newcastle Courier: They say that a certain aspiring Democratic statesman of Rushville is beginning to realize the difficulties of running for governor counter to the plans of the liquor machine.

CHILDREN INJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, this overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation, except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Rushville only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, corner Third and Main streets.

MRS. ROOSEVELT

Wife of Former President is Preparing for Panama Trip.

IN A FIT OF JEALOUSY HE KILLED HIS RIVAL

Charge On Which Young Kentuckian Is Held.

Bowling Green, Ky., Feb. 19.—Marion Crockett, it is alleged, in a fit of jealousy set off a bomb under the cottage of his sweetheart and then stabbed George Wilson, a rival, to death as the latter ran from the house seeking safety. The house was almost demolished. The girl, Florence Tinsley, was placed under arrest with Crockett, but was later released. The two men were well known in southern Kentucky society and had quarreled many times over the girl.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Wilson came to his death at the hands of Crockett, and the latter was refused bail until after the examining trial.

BLOOM IN TROUBLE

Young Army Officer Whom President Stood Up For, Faces Courtmartial.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 19.—Second Lieutenant Frank Bloom of Battery F, Fourth field artillery, at Fort D. A. Russell, is reported to be slated to answer before a courtmartial the charge that he has been guilty of "conduct unbecoming an officer." Bloom is the officer in regard to whom President Taft issued a statement that a man's racial and social attributes should not bar him from service in the army as a commissioned officer.

At the time Bloom, who is a son of the post tailor at Fort Meyer, Va., and of Jewish blood, became eligible to appointment to a second Lieutenant, Colonel Gerard, commanding at Fort Meyer, refused to consider his promotion on the ground that he was "unfit" for service as a commissioned officer. It was this attitude by Gerard that brought out the president's denunciation of prejudice in the army against a man because of his racial characteristics and social status. Taft promptly appointed Bloom a second Lieutenant, and the young officer was assigned to duty at Fort Russell.

CHAINED UP IN PUBLIC SQUARE

How Lafayette Treats Recalcitrant Vagrants.

WOULDN'T WORK ON STREETS

Because This Man, Held on Vagrancy Charge, Refused to Join the Chain Gang, He Was Chained to a Post on the Public Square, Where Many People's Hearts Were Touched by His Humiliation.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 19.—When ordered to join the street cleaning gang, James O'Connell, who gave his home as Chicago and who was arrested for vagrancy, refused, and it was necessary to resort to drastic measures to show him the folly of his ways. He was taken from jail and chained to a post on the public square and remained there all afternoon under the watchful eye of a policeman. Several people's hearts were touched by the humiliation to which the tramp was subjected and many placed small donations of money in his pocket.

When he was taken back to jail he was given only a supper of bread and water and sent to his cell. The city prisoners in the Tippecanoe county jail now have to pay their fines by working on the streets. Chains are placed on their feet so they cannot escape.

RAN INTO WRECK TRAIN

Pennsylvania Limited's Engineer Failed to See Flagman in Fog.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 19.—A Pennsylvania limited train struck and wrecked a wrecking crew train here when Engineer Bechtol failed to see a flagman in the fog. Four of the wrecking crew were killed instantly, and the fifth, F. Dobberkau, died in a Fort Wayne hospital. A dozen others were injured, some seriously.

The dead are: Frank Spoltman, Frank Wiegand, A. Bailey, F. Dobberkau, one unidentified. All of the killed and injured live in Fort Wayne and were members of the wrecking train crew.

No one on the passenger train, either crew or passengers, was seriously hurt, though all were badly shaken up. The steel coaches would not collapse, though the wrecking train coaches split like kindling.

BURRELL RETURNS

Brownstown, Ind., Feb. 19.—Hugh A. Burrell, president of the People's state bank of this place, at the time of its failure August, 1907, and who has successfully fought extradition from Oklahoma for almost two years, arrived here in the charge of G. C. McAdams of Oklahoma City, who represented the state of Indiana in the Oklahoma courts. Burrell is alleged to have wrecked his bank, and is accused of embezzling $79,000. He was permitted to go to the home of relatives while a bond was being arranged.

Foul Play Suspected.

Greensburg, Ind., Feb. 19.—The body of Henry Lott, which was found imbedded in the ice in White river at Indianapolis, was brought here and taken to Napoleon for burial. Mr. Lott had been missing since Jan. 15, and relatives believe he was a victim of foul play, as money he was known to have had in his possession is missing.

They Stuck to Their "Frat."

Shelbyville, Ind., Feb. 19.—The eight school students here who were notified by the school trustees that they must give up their membership in a high school fraternity have refused to do so and have been suspended from school till they sign an agreement that they will not further affiliate with the frat.

SOCIALISTS STIR UP ROW IN REICHSTAG

Unprecedented Situation in German Politics.

Berlin, Feb. 19.—The election of Philipp Schiedemann, a Socialist, as first vice president of the reichstag, has already caused trouble. The kaiser, on the advice of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, has refused to receive Johannes Kaempff, the Radical deputy from the emperor's own district, who was elected president of the reichstag when Dr. Spahn declined to serve with a Socialist, and Heinrich Dove, the Radical second vice president, because Schiedemann declined to join them in the customary application for an audience with the emperor. This application, as is usual, was made after the officers of the reichstag had been elected. The Socialist party does not recognize court functions, and for this reason Herr Schiedemann refused to append his name to the official application.

The situation is unprecedented and no solution of the difficulty can be foreseen at present. The Socialists interpret the action of the emperor as an attempt to prevent the ratification of the election of Herr Schiedemann, a formality which is necessary a month after he has been chosen by the reichstag, and to compel the election of some member other than a Socialist in his place. It would, however, be unprecedented to have the strongest party in the reichstag unrepresented among the presiding officers.

the penalty of the law for the offense he committed. Dean Rogers said the wager of battle statute was so absurd and so abhorring that it disappeared as a matter of course as civilization progressed.

"From time immemorial," continued Mr. Rogers, "the history of humanity has been the history of human combat. Today, in this century of civilization and christianity we are conducting wager of battle not as individuals, but as nations. It is as odious and unwise for nations as it is for individuals.

"There has never been a time in the history of the world when there was not an appeal to battle in some section. There are four wars being conducted now. But we are coming to a time when human life will be regarded as it should be, as the greatest and most sacred thing in the world. When nations are at war, human life is the cheapest thing on earth."

To illustrate the point Mr. Rogers recalled that in 1864 Gen. Mosby's regiment captured 26 of Gen. Custer's men. Previous to that Custer had captured a number of Mosby's men and had put six of them to death. For this reason Mosby ordered that six of the 26 of Custer's men be hanged, and they were. He pointed out that the six men had done nothing for which they should suffer, but they must die because no thought of human life was taken in time of war. He declared it is more obnoxious in this age of civilization to resort to war than it was for neighbors to settle quarrels by combat.

Dean Rogers said it had been estimated as accurately as possible that fifteen billion men had been killed in war in the history of the world, which is more people than have lived in all the world for six hundred years. In the last century, he asserted, fourteen million had been killed as a result of war. If it were reduced to dollars and cents, he said, and each one of that number given an average man's salary, they would earn enough to purchase all the property in the United States, England, France, Germany and Russia.

He said one million were killed in the civil war and that seven billion dollars was spent. He declared that amount of money alone would have purchased every slave in the South at $2000 a piece and that that amount of money poured into the lap of what has been a desolate country would have made it a garden spot.

Dean Rogers recalled that the United States had never been attacked, but had always been the aggressor in the four wars she has had, and they have all started from trivial and insignificant causes. Had there been a tribunal such as the courts to which citizens must appeal, he said, any one of the wars could have been averted, especially the late one with Spain, since it is not yet known whether Spain was responsible for the blowing up of the Maine.

Dean Rogers pointed that if an individual should make an arson of his house and be in preparation for battle all the time, he would be declared insane and arrested. Yet, he said, when this country is at peace, it is acting more unwisely than such an insane man. He said the United States is spending $225,000,000 annually to maintain an army and navy, 75 per cent of all money collected, and spending the other one-fourth on the civil department. He pointed out that this nation is building two battleships a year at a cost of $12,000,000 a piece, and recalled that Roosevelt, in his last year, wanted four and found for the first time he was not master of congress. You say we are prepared for war, he added, yet in our 125 years of existence no nation has ever attacked us.

"I am not going to talk politics," he continued, "but this Democratic congress which said we are not going to give money for any battleships this year meets the approval of one good sound Republican, and I am that Republican."

Prof. Rogers showed that there is no likelihood of war with either China or Japan in the light of recent disclosures. He said the world spends one billion dollars annually on armies and navies. He pointed out that during the century 300 national disputes had been settled by arbitration.

He recalled that the Czar of Russia suggested the first Hague Tribunal which met at The Hague and at which 22 nations were represented. At the next meeting in 1907, 42 of the 44 nations of the world were represented and it was resolved to try for an international court within the eight years following, the time for the next meeting. It was the law never arrived there, and suspicion fell on Thornton, he not being able to give a very satisfactory explanation. The night of that day the body of Mary Ashford was found floating in a pond and the corpse showed she had been outraged and brutally murdered. Thornton was indicted but was not convicted because no direct evidence could be obtained and he was able to establish a very satisfactory alibi.

Attorneys found there was an old statute in England which provided for an appeal in a murder case provided a near relative of the victim would file action for an appeal. Mary's brother brought action and Thornton was arrested and placed on trial again. The prosecution was astounded when Thornton was arraigned for he put on one glove and threw the other at the feet of the murdered girl's brother, thereby indicating that he challenged him to battle. Thornton's attorneys explained there was an old statute in England which provided a man accused of murder could defend himself in battle, and if he was victorious, he would have proved his innocence. The court held such was the case. Being small of stature the brother of the victim refused to fight and dismissed the action for appeal and Thornton remained a free man.

This resulted, Dean Rogers said, in the two statutes, that of appeal in murder and that of wager of battle, being appealed by parliament in 1819, and there has never been such a law in the world since that time. Years previous to this, Mr. Rogers said, there had been statutes in many countries providing legal questions could be settled by mortal combat. It was the custom to fight from sun-up until sun-down unless one was vanquished. If the plaintiff was defeated he had to pay the defendant for outraging him then he proved by victory in battle that he was innocent. If the defendant was beaten he had to pay school dean's closing thought that the peace movement will progress among nations as it has among individuals.

B. F. Miller, who is an intimate friend of Mr. Rogers, presided at the meeting. A quartet composed of B. F. Miller, Dr. F. R. McClanahan, John A. Spurrier and Walter Wilson, sang. Will M. Sparks presided at the pipe organ.

PREACHER-EDITOR BUYS PRESS AND BEGINS OVER

The publication of the Herald was discontinued about a year ago. No one ever knew why. The cause has at last leaked out. The preacher-editor became disgusted with the work, largely because he had to gather and write the news, set the type and then operate the hand press. Now, thank you, he has a power press and some other modern equipment. Ye Ed.'s constituency is invited to come and view it. But F. Wilson best explains the reasons for suspending publication by the following leading editorial in the first issue under the new regime:

"With this issue we begin again the publication of The Herald, that visited your home weekly for 17 long years. We will make it our aim, as heretofore, to give you all the news, not fault finding or quarreling with you because of your views or opinions as we may have done in the past, but allowing you the same right that we cherish. We mean to give you the local news and have the paper out on time, giving careful attention that no mistakes occur. A power press and other additions have been made to our outfit and we give you a cordial invitation to come around and inspect our office.

"We have never been satisfied since we suspended publication. It was not a case of necessity for The Herald was not in financial straits, but had always paid and paid well. The truth of the matter is that we became thoroughly discouraged and disgusted with the labor of operating a hand press, but now that cause for complaint is eliminated and The Herald is in the field to stay. Besides no other paper can cover this field. Several attempted it and failed completely. Your hearty support is solicited; we must have your patronage and co-operation or we can not hope to make this sheet a success. The Herald is a local enterprise and every citizen is asked to give it a boost."

The first issue is notable because the preacher-editor has started something which he never tired before. The paper is all "home print." There is not a line of "boiler plate" in the whole issue. It still consists of four pages but they are greatly reduced in size compared to what they were formerly.

The initial issue of the regenerated paper is spiced up with some art and poetry. Ye Ed. contributes a couple of poems: "Those Who Wear the Sash" and "A Rural Sonnet." A verse and the chorus of "The Girl I Loved in Sunny Tennessee" is printed "by request." The paper contains some articles concerning the early history of Andersonville. The art includes pictures of Ye Ed., the office, the Andersonville Christian church, the officers of the Andersonville camp of Modern Woodmen and an interior view of the print shop.

The preacher-editor announces a policy of retrenchment, declaring "we are running the Herald for a livelihood—the means of getting our bread and butter. Therefore do not ask us to credit you for we can not do it. We need money and cash talks."

The Herald is out to retrieve the honor of the town. Ye Ed. sails into the old fogies and decries the fact that Andersonville can not be as good a town as, say Milroy or Glenwood. Both of these are pointed out as ideals. "A few years ago," he writes, "they were dirty, unpretentious, straggling villages, but now they are two of the cleanest towns in the State, improved in every way by the progressiveness of their citizens. What others have done we can do."

The Rev. F. Wilson Kaler starts out on a hot campaign for the I. & C. extension from this city by way of Andersonville. He writes that it is "now or never" and publishes the following editorial:

We were asked the other day if we had given up hopes of the traction line being built along the Bulltown route. Surely not. We have an abiding faith in the good, common, horse sense of the I. & C. traction magnates. They have the ability to see as far into a grindstone as those parties who are clamoring for another route.

A GRAPEVINE

Some unknown party called the police to the Arbuckle foundry Sunday morning about one o'clock, telling them that a gang of drunks had broken into the place and started a fire. The "tip" proved to be a grapevine and the officers after investigation could not even find where the place was entered.
